

This particular piece of rule making goes against everything that I have been raised to believe. I can not believe that our government is now in the business of revoking personal freedoms without any explanation or allowing any recourse. Have we returned to the days of Mc Carthy?